For Immediate Release

Delaware Hospice Center receives in-kind donation from Nickle Electrical and United Electric Supply.

Philanthropic spirit lives on despite the challenging economic situation. The Delaware Hospice Center received a generous in-kind donation from Nickle Electrical Companies and United Electric Supply when they partnered to donate the materials and labor to install a light for the Delaware Hospice Center's sign at its front entrance.

Michael Caloway, United Electric Supply's Dover Manager, and Dave Schreffler, Nickle Electrical's Project Manager, were both involved in the construction of the state-of-the-art hospice center. Nickle Electrical Companies received the highest honor for its outstanding work in planning and building the electrical system for the Delaware Hospice Center at the ABC Delaware's "2008 Excellence in Construction Awards" banquet.

Delaware Hospice Facilities Manager, Chuck Palmer, said, "Both companies have continued to be supportive of Delaware Hospice, giving back to the organization in other ways, such as participating in fundraising events. It's humbling to see such generosity in an industry which is particularly struggling in this economy."

The Delaware Hospice Center is a home-away-from-home for patients in need of brief stays for symptom management. Specialized care is available 24 hours a day, giving caregivers needed support and quality time with their loved ones. At the Center, they find privacy, comfort, and comprehensive services in the 16 family suites, with family, kitchen and dining areas as well as a children's playroom. The Center also houses the Family Support Center, which offers programs for caregivers and survivors, and the Community Conference Room, which provides a meeting place to local organizations.
